Crafts to do when bored or stressed

1. Paper Towel Coloring

This next simple craft idea is SUPER basic and easy - BUT, at this moment in history, might not be the BEST use of your paper towels lol!

Just grab some markers and color the dots on a sheet of paper towels.

Just look how pretty it turns out!

For me, this would be oddly satisfying (she says as she goes to grab her markers and a sheet of paper towels).

2. Paint Some Rocks

When I'm feeling stressed out or down in the dumps, I like to not only do some sort of craft project, but also create it for OTHER people to lift their spirits.

These types of painted rocks below fit both of those things - a fun and easy art project for the kids and I to do AND we scatter them around our neighborhood or local park for other people to find... and hopefully, it will lift their spirits when they find them.
